Enrolling in CSE courses.

The CSE department gives scheduling priority for their classes to CSE and CIS majors. All other students must add themselves to the waitlist for these courses and the CSE advisors will move students into these courses after the CSE/CIS majors have had a reasonable opportunity to schedule. If possible, put yourself on the waitlist for all sections that could fit your schedule without a time conflict to maximize your opportunity for getting in.

The best thing to do is to plan ahead, schedule when your appointment window opens, have a back-up plan in case you cannot get into the course, and be patient. If you are not off the waitlist when classes start, go to the course section you want, as some spaces may open up from students dropping through the first Friday of the term. After the first Friday, CSE professors often sign course enrollment permission forms for a limited number of waitlisted students if registered students have not attended prior to the first Friday of the term.

Enrolling in business courses.

In order to find out if you are eligible to enroll in the course, start by looking at the prerequisites. If you do not meet the prerequisites, contact the course instructor and request permission to add the course by “Waiving Prerequisites Requirements”

If you meet the prerequisites and receive one of the following error messages when attempting to add the course, you need to waitlist yourself for the class section. The College of Business allows their students to enroll first and will give all remaining seats to students on the waitlist.

- Available seats are reserved for Business students. If you have any questions, please contact your academic advisor.
- Available seats are reserved for Business students until the end of spring term. If you have any questions, please contact your academic advisor.